Knights of the Blood Oath

The Knights of the Blood Oath (盟騎士団, Ketsumei Kishidan) were the strongest Guild of Sword Art Online. They were created by Heathcliff, who is also the commander. The content [show] of the Knights of Blood Oath was considered the strongest Guild of SAO. They had a lot of players, many very skilled players. They were created a month after the death of the game began with Heathcliff, the secret Kayaba Akihiko, who wanted to help hopeless players surviving the game. He served as the Guild's commander, while Ram was deputy commander of the Guild. The Guild has been constantly looking for possible new Members, such as Kirito. Despite its fearsome reputation, it meant that the Guild was not as strong as it seemed. Heathcliff once mentioned that people never followed his orders, did whatever they satisfied, and blamed all their problems on Kayaba when things went bad, not knowing that he was their leader. It was obviously enough to drive Heathcliff insane. The fictional character AsunaSword Art Online characterAsuna, as she appears in Sword Art OnlineCreated byReki KawaharaVoiced byHaruka Tomatsu (Japanese) Cherami Leigh (English) Asuna Yuuki (Yūki Asuna) is a fictional character that appears in the Sword Art Online series of light novels by Reki Kawahara. She is mononymously more commonly known as just Asuna (アサナ), her player's name in the eponymous video game, which novels are set. Asuna appears as Kirito's lover, as well as the female lead, she is the novel's sub-leader of the Knights of blood oath (盟騎士団, Ketsumei Kishidan) guild, notable for being the strongest guild of Aincrad. She is depicted as having earned a reputation as a qualified player in-game, giving her二 the nickname Lightning Flash (第第第第第第第第), which, along with her physical attraction, has made her well known and sought after by other players. Both Asuna and Kirito have become popular characters in anime and manga fandom, often appearing on lists of the most popular anime characters. In addition, Asuna is featured in many of the official Sword Art Online merchandise, and has been subjected to a mix of mostly positive critical receptions, focusing on her relationship with Kirito, the attraction, and role in the series. Creation and Concept Left: Asuna rapier Lambert Light, as shown in the TV series. Right: The official character design abec for the light novel In an interview with series author Reki Kawahara, the author noted that the female characters in Sword Art Online were not based on someone he knew to be real with him stating: I don't usually take a character in a setting or something before I start writing. As I write the story, girls become what they are now. So, somehow, I don't know exactly, but somehow, my subliminal idea or some hidden emotions are created by characters that are strong and capable. Kawahara also added that he wrote a series to show that he sees online gaming as not as a social illness or avoid real life, and thus decided to show the game a more positive light in his light novels. [1] In another interview with Anime News Network interviewer Lynzee Loveridge noted that Asuna is a very strong, capable female character, likely inging her to Genji's mother Genji, to which Kawahara agreed. [2] At Sakura-Con in 2013, Kawahara noted that the character Asuna I might have created too perfectly for Sword Art Online. When teamed up with Kirito, there were almost no problems, two as the pair could not overcome in response to whether Asuna was a tough character to develop. [3] In an interview with Asuna's voice actor, Haruku Tomatsu, she said that instead of having something similar to her, I believe she's the perfect person I'd like to become. After all, she can cook, she's smart... I think she is the type of woman I wanted to become and admired. Leaving aside if I could cook well though, I would really like to cook. I don't really know if I can say if we're like that, though. [4] The ability of Lambert Light (第第第第第第第第, Ranbento Raito) is Asuna's signature one-handed rapier. [5] She continued to use it as her main weapon of choice until a fatal battle on the 75th floor. Kirito took advantage of this rapier stab and defeated Heathcliff in the final battle, thus clearing the game. Her rapier, combined with her speed, earned her the nickname Lightning Flash. Appearances by the main heroine of Sword Art Online and the main character of the seventh volume. Asuna is a friend and later is the wife of Kirito and the sub-knights of Blood Oath, a medium-sized guild recognized as the strongest guild of Aincrad. Being one of the few girls who plays SAO and very attractive, she receives a lot of invitations and suggestions. Asuna is a strong-desire, accomplished player known in-game as Flash for her extraordinary quick sword skills. Later she falls in love with Kirito and they marry in-game. At the end of the SAO arc, she saves Kirito from killing a blow to Heathcliff at the cost of her life. However, her death was only a game, and she soon reunited with Kirito shortly after Heathcliff's death. Despite the completion of the SAO, Asuna remains unconscious and is instead apprehended in another virtual reality called Alfheim Online. She is forced to play the role of Titania Queen Fairies, with Nobuyuki Sugō, the man responsible for trapping her, playing as the Oberon Fairy King. This is done so that Sugō can marry Asuna in the real world while she is unconscious and take over RCT Progress Inc. She tries to escape from the Tree of the World where she is imprisoned and manages to steal a GM card which she throws out the window when she hears the YUI voice. After being released she posed for two avatars for Alfheim, Asuna (the healer of the team) and Erika (battle-type avatar), and continued to live with Kirito. She hosts at sao survivor school with Kazuto Kirigaya in the real world after everything ended. In the real world, Asuna's parents want her to follow in their footsteps. However, after living in the SAO and meeting Kirito, she gets a different perspective and looks back on her past with disgust. She officially becomes Kazuto's real life girlfriend and dreams of marrying her and having a family with her in the future. Reception Critical commentary Cherami Leigh has received praise for her performance as an Asuna English dub. Asuna finds that she feels more at home rebuilt in Sword Art Online than in the real world. For two years in the online world, she was a soldier responsible for her own destiny and helped guide others in their struggle for freedom. In the real world she is an heiress to a rich and distinguished family full of officials and politicians, and thus is supposed to go to the best schools, get the best grades, get a highly respected job, and marry an influential high society man – her whole life has been planned for her since birth. There is no place to plan to spend time in an online game with your friends, going to a non-top level school, or loving a normal boy. Much of the [...] Asuna is fighting with who she is and who she wants to be, how she is pitted against her intolerless, intolerated mother at home. Richard Eisenbeis, Kotaku[6] In a review, Richard Eisenbeis of Kotaku hailed Sword Art Online as the smartest series in recent years; Eisenbeis specifically noted how the romance between Kirito and Asuna is being explored in bringing the definition of exactly what love is like in a virtual world. [7] However, in the second half of the novel, criticism was levied on the aspect of turning Asuna into a maiden distress trophy, indicating that a strong woman's lead was reduced to nothing but a quest for an item of male lead in the hunt. [8] Eisenbeis complained that, in the first online circle of Sword art, Asuna was a strong fighter and one of the leaders who depended on thousands to get through the game of death. In the second arc, she was powerless, locked in a literal bird cage and molested by her captor while waiting for her hero to rescue her. In Gun Gale Online, she was little more than a spectator cheering on her man. And even calibre, she was just another member of the ensemble cast. [9] In response to this criticism, Karen Mead Japanator.com by writing that, in the case of Asuna, her actions are useful for her salvation; if she hadn't broken out of her cell and gone to explore late for the show, Kirito wouldn't have gotten the map he needed to get to she was and rescue her, thus invalid in her role as a girl in distress technically, although the criticism itself was still considered valid. The claim that Kirito serves as a Gary Stu-type character was also disputed, referring to his relationship with Asuna. [10] However, Eisenbeis praised the fourth-arc of Sword Art Online because it focused mainly on Asuna's point of view – a great choice, in his opinion, because it allows Asuna, who suddenly went from strong woman to lead to a weak damsel in distress in the series second arc, to once again come to her own and evolve as a character. The arc in general was called both heartbreaking and beautiful. [6] Popularity of Character popularity has made him a popular cosplay theme. Asuna is one of the most popular characters in Sword Art Online. [1] In a fan poll for anime website Charapedia, 10,000 respondents voted for their favorite couples in anime, with Asuna and Kirito topping the list. [11] Kirito's Confessions Asuna also placed third in the list of top twenty anime and manga love confessions on the same website. [12] The 13rd Charapedia poll, which asked fans to list their favorite cool women in anime, had Asuna placed second with 525 votes. [13] The fourth, in which users will list the 20 best anime/manga characters that should not be triggered, asuna was listed in third place. [14] Another Charapedia survey, where respondents ranked in the top 30 [anime] characters they'd like to work with, was Kirito placed twenty-ninth and Asuna twenty-sixth. [15] The Chinese website, bilibili, was a reader survey to find the most moe characters of 2015: Asuna placed first in the women's top 9 and Kirito sixth in the men's top 9[16] Asuna and Kirito received the first and second respectively in the character survey by Dengeki Bunko (Sword Art Online Publisher) for their light novels. [17] In addition, Asuna took first place in the Tokyo Otaku regime survey, where users surveyed which anime characters they most wanted so far, with 2,845 respondents from 100 countries. [18] Kirito and Asuna are once again written by Anime News Network [Top] 7 couples who love love and war, writing love blooms in the virtual battlefield and the two married before the game creator together. [19] Otamat, a popular Japanese app specializing in anime, manga and idol products, surveyed users in which characters look best in swimsuits and yukatas, with Asuna placing 13 (swimwear) and 15 (for yukatas) respectively. [20] Another Otamat survey asks users to rank anime characters they like to give chocolate. So Valentine's Day was Asuna put both the 10th on the characters men want to give chocolate and men wanting to get chocolate from. [21] The August 2014 Newtype edition published the results of a recent character popularity survey, and Asuna's 4th place puts the owners in all female characters (Kirito puts first in the male character category). [22] Poll that could decide characters to be placed The Art Online artbook had Asuna positioned in the first place. [23] Asuna was ranked eighth in the Top 25 Hottest Anime Babes [of] 2013. Kazuto (Kirito) placed fourth. [25] Italian restaurant La Ricetta in Zama, Kanagawa offers pancakes made with anime and video game character art, including Kirito and Asuna. [26] The character of Asuna itasha in Taiasha, Taiwan has received a positive critical reception, and her popularity has led to her being featured in several series promotion efforts or merchandise. This includes two swimsuit figures Asuna and Leafa, another character from Sword Art Online. [27] There is also an Asuna cooking version figurine, which is set for release in May 2016. [28] She also features in the promotional ad series Umaibo bloated corn appetizers by Namco. [29] In June 2015, an interactive digital assistant app called Wake Me Up Asuna was released in Japan, where Asuna provides the user with information such as alarm bells, current weather, happiness, and meetings, followed by an international english release. [30] Asuna herself appears in several costumes, including her Blood Knights uniform and yellow sweater. The app itself is free, although users have to pay for English voice recognition and subtitles. [31] Sword Art Online girls (including Asuna) feature items in the lottery gang, with the Anime News Network humorously stating that Girls' Sword Art Online has brought quite a penny for franchise creators, whether the characters are lounging with parasols or starring in their manga spin-off. [32] Copies of Asuna Wind Fleur and Kirito Elucidator rapiers have been built. [33] There are also perfumes branded by Kirito, Asuna, and Sinon Sword Art Online for sale; Asuna is described as a sweet, irresistibly refreshing smell of galbanum and jasmine. [34] The Sword Art Online Glasses, based on characters, were a model of Fairy-tale Dance Asuna, inspired by [he]r time in Yggdrasil, the World Tree, and these glasses have light pink frames with red ribbons and flowing hair, depicted on each hand. [35] There are also sharp (in both regular and Titanic versions), jacking figures for Leaf and Suguha headphones. [36] Asuna has featured in several online video games of Sword art. This includes Dengeki Bunko: Fighting Climax, in which several characters appear under Dengeki Bunko imprint are featured. [37] Asuna, Kirito and Leafa appeared in the manga Anime Guardians anime and manga piracy project, and the project was supported by 15 anime production studios and manga publishers. ## Knights of the blood oath guild

The Knights of the blood oath guild (盟騎士団, Ketsumei Kishidan) were the strongest Guild of Sword Art Online. They were created by Heathcliff, who is also the commander. The content [show] of the Knights of Blood Oath was considered the strongest Guild of SAO. They had a lot of players, many very skilled players. They were created a month after the death of the game began with Heathcliff, the secret Kayaba Akihiko, who wanted to help hopeless players surviving the game. He served as the Guild's commander, while Ram was deputy commander of the Guild. The Guild has been constantly looking for possible new Members, such as Kirito. Despite its fearsome reputation, it meant that the Guild was not as strong as it seemed. Heathcliff once mentioned that people never followed his orders, did whatever they satisfied, and blamed all their problems on Kayaba when things went bad, not knowing that he was their leader. It was obviously enough to drive Heathcliff insane. Known Members of The Image Rank notes Heathcliff Commander Asuna Deputy Commander Fluffy Captain and Council Member (defected) betrayed the Guild to join forces with King Ash Kuradeel Bodyguard (defected) killed by Asuna on October 23, 2024. Kirito member Differences from the Original Knights blood oath was just called the blood knights english Dub Knights of Blood Oath is a direct translation of the Japanese word. It wasn't up with Kayaba because he wanted to help out with the original players, it was all part of the story that Kayaba was trying to tell in the game how he plans to pass them on and discover himself at some point. Because Pooch never existed because there were no cat players in the original, and as a side note, because Collinia didn't fail to ruin, nothing to do with The King happened either. Trivia TBA References Knights of Blood » 盟騎士団, Ketsumei Kishidan?. lit. Composed of about thirty high-profile members, all of which are very experienced in the fight, they are recognized as the lead guild sao. Their uniforms are styled in red and white to symbolize their guild. Why it is important to eat with your familySponsored by ConnatiBackgroundAfter the boss battle on the 25th floor, the clearing group endured a major accident due to the boss floor being stronger than expected, as well as Aincrad's release squad rushing into the boss battle after being given false information about the boss. After the battle, the group's size was reduced to 2/3 of its size due to the high number of deaths and the remaining ALS members leaving the front line. Therefore, the result of the battle put the clearing group in a state of great despair. At this point, the need for a new guild is leading the battle and on the front the players emerged and blood knights were formed, with its leader, Heathcliff, personally inviting the first members. Proudly marching during the first field boss strategy meeting on the 26th floor with customized white and red equipment by Asuna, the second team, standing at the head of the group, the newly formed guild greatly increased the morale of clearing groups and has stood at the front line ever since. Base Granzam KoB Headquarters.To is located on the 55th floor of the living area, in a city known as the steel town «Granzam». Their headquarters are a huge steel tower with silver spears above the gate and white flags with red crosses swaying in the wind (red flags with white/bronze swords in anime). Before that, their base was a small house in a rural village on the thirty-ninth floor, but they soon had to move because this base was too small and crowded to use it. The fictional character AsunaSword Art Online characterAsuna, as she appears in Sword Art OnlineCreated byReki KawaharaVoiced byHaruka Tomatsu (Japanese) Cherami Leigh (English) Asuna Yuuki (Yūki Asuna) is a fictional character that appears in the Sword Art Online series of light novels by Reki Kawahara. She is mononymously more commonly known as just Asuna (アサナ), her player's name in the eponymous video game, which novels are set. Asuna appears as Kirito's lover, as well as the female lead, she is the novel's sub-leader of the Knights of blood oath (盟騎士団, Ketsumei Kishidan) guild, notable for being the strongest guild of Aincrad. She is depicted as having earned a reputation as a qualified player in-game, giving her二 the nickname Lightning Flash (第第第第第第第第), which, along with her physical attraction, has made her well known and sought after by other players. Both Asuna and Kirito have become popular characters in anime and manga fandom, often appearing on lists of the most popular anime characters. In addition, Asuna is featured in many of the official Sword Art Online merchandise, and has been subjected to a mix of mostly positive critical receptions, focusing on her relationship with Kirito, the attraction, and role in the series. Creation and Concept Left: Asuna rapier Lambert Light, as shown in the TV series. Right: The official character design abec for the light novel In an interview with series author Reki Kawahara, the author noted that the female characters in Sword Art Online were not based on someone he knew to be real with him stating: I don't usually take a character in a setting or something before I start writing. As I write the story, girls become what they are now. So, somehow, I don't know exactly, but somehow, my subliminal idea or some hidden emotions are created by characters that are strong and capable. Kawahara also added that he wrote a series to show that he sees online gaming as not as a social illness or avoid real life, and thus decided to show the game a more positive light in his light novels. [1] In another interview with Anime News Network interviewer Lynzee Loveridge noted that Asuna is a very strong, capable female character, likely inging her to Genji's mother Genji, to which Kawahara agreed. [2] At Sakura-Con in 2013, Kawahara noted that the character Asuna I might have created too perfectly for Sword Art Online. When teamed up with Kirito, there were almost no problems, two as the pair could not overcome in response to whether Asuna was a tough character to develop. [3] In an interview with Asuna's voice actor, Haruku Tomatsu, she said that instead of having something similar to her, I believe she's the perfect person I'd like to become. After all, she can cook, she's smart... I think she is the type of woman I wanted to become and admired. Leaving aside if I could cook well though, I would really like to cook. I don't really know if I can say if we're like that, though. [4] The ability of Lambert Light (第第第第第第第第, Ranbento Raito) is Asuna's signature one-handed rapier. [5] She continued to use it as her main weapon of choice until a fatal battle on the 75th floor. Kirito took advantage of this rapier stab and defeated Heathcliff in the final battle, thus clearing the game. Her rapier, combined with her speed, earned her the nickname Lightning Flash. Appearances by the main heroine of Sword Art Online and the main character of the seventh volume. Asuna is a friend and later is the wife of Kirito and the sub-knights of Blood Oath, a medium-sized guild recognized as the strongest guild of Aincrad. Being one of the few girls who plays SAO and very attractive, she receives a lot of invitations and suggestions. Asuna is a strong-desire, accomplished player known in-game as Flash for her extraordinary quick sword skills. Later she falls in love with Kirito and they marry in-game. At the end of the SAO arc, she saves Kirito from killing a blow to Heathcliff at the cost of her life. However, her death was only a game, and she soon reunited with Kirito shortly after Heathcliff's death. Despite the completion of the SAO, Asuna remains unconscious and is instead apprehended in another virtual reality called Alfheim Online. She is forced to play the role of Titania Queen Fairies, with Nobuyuki Sugō, the man responsible for trapping her, playing as the Oberon Fairy King. This is done so that Sugō can marry Asuna in the real world while she is unconscious and take over RCT Progress Inc. She tries to escape from the Tree of the World where she is imprisoned and manages to steal a GM card which she throws out the window when she hears the YUI voice. After being released she posed for two avatars for Alfheim, Asuna (the healer of the team) and Erika (battle-type avatar), and continued to live with Kirito. She hosts at sao survivor school with Kazuto Kirigaya in the real world after everything ended. In the real world, Asuna's parents want her to follow in their footsteps. However, after living in the SAO and meeting Kirito, she gets
